Man Sentenced for Murder, Attempted Murder in Stabbing Spree

A man was sentenced today to life without the possibility of parole for the murder and attempted murder of two transients in the Hollywood area five years ago, the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office announced.

Los Angeles County Superior Court Judge Robert Perry also sentenced 58-year-old Domingo Linares Rodas to two consecutive life sentences. Rodas was convicted last month of one count of murder and two counts of attempted murder.

Prosecutors said Rodas fatally stabbed Keith Fallin on Aug. 6, 2009 while he was asleep outside the Music Box Theatre on Hollywood Boulevard.

A few hours later, Rodas attacked a second man with a knife. That victim was stabbed in the chest but survived the assault, prosecutors said. Rodas also stabbed and wounded a third man on the same day.

The case was prosecuted by Deputy District Attorneys Ian Phan and Jeffrey Herring. It was investigated by the Los Angeles Police Department.
