Bruno Hernandez

Board Member

Bruno Hernandez is a dedicated justice reform professional with a passion for transforming communities through advocacy, art, and social change. With over 25 years of professional management experience, he has emerged as a prominent figure in the field, spearheading innovative initiatives and leading transformative projects.

As the Executive Director of the Be Creative/ STP Foundation, Bruno oversees the organization's mission to foster creativity, empowerment, and social justice through various artistic platforms. Under his strategic leadership, the foundation has made significant strides in promoting inclusivity, diversity, and expression within the community. Bruno's commitment to justice reform is further exemplified by his 11 years and counting, of managing the Venice Art Walls. This is in collaboration with the City of Los Angeles and the Department of Recreation and Parks, a program widely considered as the most famous public art space in the United States. Through this role, he has facilitated a platform for artists to convey powerful messages, challenge social norms, provide court ordered community service programming, and spark meaningful conversations during the free community events he hosts at the walls.

Bruno's dedication to community justice extends beyond his involvement with the arts. He actively engages with the Los Angeles City Attorney's Office under the NJP Neighborhood Justice Program, where he conducts diversion classes that aim to address underlying issues contributing to criminal behavior. His insightful teachings and compassionate approach have made a lasting impact on individuals seeking rehabilitation, fostering a sense of personal growth and empowerment. His journey in public service also includes currently serving a third term as a public elected official, holding the esteemed position of Community Interest Officer for the Venice Neighborhood Council. In this capacity, he represented the voices and concerns of the community, working diligently to bridge gaps, resolve conflicts, and advocate for policies that would enhance the overall well-being of residents.

As a native of Los Angeles County, his mission of justice reform has been shaped by his extensive lived experience. Born and raised in the area, he intimately understands the unique challenges and opportunities that exist within the community. This firsthand knowledge along with a serve-first mentality fuels his commitment to creating a more equitable and just society for all.

Combining his profound understanding of community dynamics with his management acumen, Bruno Hernandez continues to inspire and enact positive change. His exceptional leadership, coupled with his unwavering dedication to justice reform, makes him an invaluable asset to the field.
